

Join us for the invite only Community Leaders Breakfast

Tuesday, Nov. 10, 2009 • 7:15 - 8:30 a.m.
Holiday Inn of New Ulm (German Rivers Room)

About the Heart of New Ulm Project:

The Heart of New Ulm project (HONU) is a 10-year initiative designed to reduce, and eventually eliminate, heart attacks in New Ulm, Minn. The project is a collaborative partnership of Allina Hospitals & Clinics, the Minneapolis Heart Institute Foundation, the New Ulm Medical Center and the City of New Ulm.

Agenda

7:15 a.m. to 7:30 a.m.:

Registration and Community Leaders Breakfast

7:30 a.m. to 8:30 a.m.:

Keynote speaker Dee Edington, Ph.D.

RSVP by Nov. 4, 2009

Phone: 507.233.1945

Email: shawn.hildebrandt@allina.com

**Community Leaders Breakfast offered at no charge through the Heart of New Ulm Project.**

Speakers Bio:

Dee Edington, Ph.D

Director of the University of Michigan Health Management Research Center, D.W. Edington is also a Professor in the Division of Kinesiology at the University of Michigan and a research scientist in the School of Public Health. Dr. Edington is the author or co-author of over 500 articles, presentations, and several books, including Biology of Physical Activity, Biological Awareness, Frontiers of Exercise Biology, The One Minute Manager Gets Fit and the 2nd edition, The One Minute Manager Balances Work and Life.

Dr. Edington's teaching and research focus on the relationship between healthy lifestyles, vitality and quality of life, as they benefit both individuals and organizations. He is specifically interested in how individual health promotion, worksite wellness activities and programs within organizations impact health care cost containment, productivity and human resource development.

